

AP Spanish Summer Assignment

The following are a number of links that I would hope you would visit to prepare for next year. In general I would like you to at least expose yourself to Spanish once a week. This could be by watching Spanish television, listening to music in Spanish or reading a newspaper, magazine, internet site and or blog in Spanish. I would like you to increase your vocabulary and that can be done by the aforementioned methods. Furthermore, I have posted websites that have the vocabulary for the first 4 chapters of our book Triángulo. It would be a great advantage to all if you were to know this vocabulary ahead of time. I would also like you to visit the following sites for some practice on some of the more complicated grammar points in Spanish. Print out the work you do to be handed in the first day of class. Just one from each website. AP Spanish is a very difficult course and if you have a particular weakness you should concentrate on that weakness over the summer. Studyspanish.com is a great website to review all the grammar you have learned. I highly recommend it.

Las canciones del primer semestre

Here is a list of songs that emphasize certain grammar points we will cover in the first semester. Check them out, you should be able to find them all as well as the lyrics. You do not have to print them out if you do not want to do so. We will be analyzing them and doing various activities with them as well, so it would be good for you to at least recognize them.
